

THE NEW EAST BAY AIDS MEMORIAL GARDEN

HELP US CREATE A GARDEN OF HOPE

The East Bay boasts a rich history and diverse culture; however, there's no monument that memorializes, honors nor recognizes HIV's impact on the community. To address this, East Bay Getting to Zero is leading the creation of the East Bay's first AIDS Memorial Garden within The Gardens at Lake Merritt.

Rooted in Oakland's landscape and legacy, the garden will honor those living with HIV, remember those lost, and foster intergenerational dialogue about the HIV and LGBTQ+ experience. Conceived as an ecotherapy space, it will offer reflection, healing, and hands-on care—transforming remembrance into connection.

FOR MORE INFO &
TO DONATE, VISIT:

EASTBAYAIDSMEMORIAL.ORG

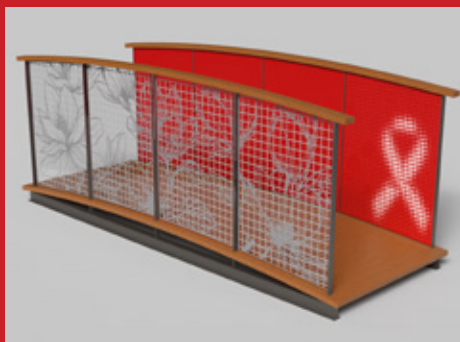

The Gardens of Lake Merritt entrance

Site location within the Garden

Proposed design of the new bridge

Hands-on tending the garden will provide healing and connection.

FOR MORE INFORMATION AND TO DONATE, VISIT:
EASTBAYAIDSMEMORIAL.ORG

